THE VAN WAGONER STORE

"The Van Wagoner store was located where the Coleman Store is now. In those days the Mercantiles carried no packaged goods; everything came in bulk. If someone wanted a quarters worth of sugar, it was scooped up and put into one of the customer's own containers. Perhaps a customer had brought in a bucket of eggs to trade for groceries, then the bucket would be used to carry their purchases. Other items might be wrapped in newspaper since there were no paper bags. The clerks did all this, since the shelves were behind the counters and customers were not to help themselves as they do today. Bananas hung from a hook in the ceiling; meat also hung from hooks, but only on certain days of the week since there was no refrigeration. Whatever piece of meat the customer wanted was cut off as he waited."

"The building was built in 1906 by Wm. L. and John Van Wagoner, Bishop. It was owned and managed by these two brothers and their sisters, Nancy and Luella Van Wagoner clerked in the store. Later the store was bought by a group of townspeople, with Bishop Jacob Probst in charge. Pr. Parley Van Wagoner was manager for a time. Still later, Dean and Albert Van Wagoner, brothers of the original owners, started another grocery store and meat market. They operated for several years. Valorous Probst operated a market there for awhile. This part of the building is now included in the Coleman Store.

In April 1917, Guy Coleman bought his father's business. In 1922 Guy's brother, Henry S. bought the business and ran it for a year. Guy Coleman then repurchased the store from Henry. Today the store has been greatly enlarged and completely modernized. Guy's son Pete is a partner in the business which is known as Coleman's Store. It is a flourishing grocery store and up to date market."

burning and building. He loved to go fishing in the Provo River and at Strawberry Lake. As the family grew, they had many happy times along the mountain streams.

In the spring of 1900 William met the girl who was to become his life companion, Charlotte Sharp. The evening of their marriage they were honored at a reception held in the old Van Wagoner hall. They went to the Salt Lake Temple May 1st, 1901, and received their Endowments.

In the fall of 1901 William received a call to go on a mission to the Eastern States. This was about a week before their first child was born. This was a difficult decision for the young couple to make, since they were without finances, and too, they would be separated over two years. After praying and talking it over with their families they decided that William should go. William left for the mission field in November 1901 and returned in November 1903, having served an honorable mission.

During his life William was very active in church and civic affairs. As a boy he was president of the Deacons. As a young man he served as Superintendent of the Sunday School and as President of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Assn. For nine years he served as a counselor in the Bishopric of the Midway 1st Ward, first as a counselor to Bishop Joseph Francom and later to Bishop Henry Coleman. For 16 years he served on the Wasatch Stake High Council under President Joseph Murdoch and later with David A. Broadbent. He was a Sunday School teacher, ward teacher and later was appointed President of the Stake Genealogical Committee. He was an inspiring speaker and much in demand at public gatherings.

He served for several years on the Wasatch School Board. William was elected to the State Legislature for three terms by the Republican Party, in 1913, 1915 and in 1933.

For many years William was a merchant, meat cutter, builder and real estate broker. He was appointed by the federal government to act as an appraiser of land involved in the Deer Creek Reservoir project.

Charlotte Sharp Van Wagoner was a devoted wife and mother. She was known as one of the finest homemakers in the valley, and one of the best cooks. Relatives, friends and business associates were always welcome in her home, and always enjoyed
